

McKesson Lashes Out at 'Greedy' Handful of Doctors, Pharmacists

William B. McKesson, district attorney of Los Angeles county, unleashed a verbal attack yesterday on a handful of doctors, pharmacists, and other professional people serving the healing arts who in their greed, according to McKesson, have criminally misused public funds and violated the sacred trust of their patients, their profession, and their government.

Patients and customers of these doctors, dentists, optometrists, pharmacists, and others, were people of all ages who are receiving aid from the county's bureau of public assistance.

McKesson pointed out, recognized that recipients of meager welfare allowances were unable to afford basic medical care, drugs and necessary tools of everyday living such as eyeglasses and teeth. The state then developed and provided the current medical care program as an integral part of the Public Welfare Dept.'s activities.

The medical care plan, McKesson observed, calls for doctors to treat qualified welfare recipients or the supplying of certain medical services, drugs, dental and optical needs at modest cost to the state. Doctors, druggists, optometrists and others rendering such services are volunteers, and are not compelled to partake in the medical care program.

THOSE WHO do, are certified by the State Department of Social Welfare as duly authorized to provide the medical needs of welfare recipients. There is, McKesson added, a certain amount of administration involved as the state makes payments for such professional services directly to the one who rendered them and not through the patient.

Welfare recipients have great latitude as to choice of doctor, pharmacist, optometrist, dentist or other individual or service certified by the Dept. of Social Welfare, he added.

THE LARGEST number of welfare recipients are those in the Old-Age Security program who, in their need, sought the offices, laboratories, and clinics of those medical and allied services participating in the medical care program.

It was soon discovered by a few charlatans who rendered such services, that there was an opportunity to defraud the government. Morals and ethics, the two attributes upon which professional people are presumed to be nurtured, were discarded with utter disdain, McKesson said.

medical services never rendered, Solicitation was made through newspaper ads and other means which led recipients of public welfare to believe that even if they didn't need medical attention or services they were getting cheated out of something they were entitled to if they did not partici-

IN THE FILLING of prescriptions less medication was given the welfare recipient than was called for in some instances, but the state was charged for the full amount. The state was also charged for Patients were also asked to sign certificates attesting to medical services which they never received.

THIS TYPE of professional person who defrauds both the government and his patients, brings dishonor to himself, his family, and by his actions, McKesson strongly pointed out, heaps unwarranted discredit upon his profession and the many fine and conscientious men and women who are dedicated to healing the sick.

"I have instructed our bureau of investigation to conduct a thorough examination of the practices and activities relating to possible abuse of the medical care program. I can assure you as district attorney I shall without fear or favor vigorously prosecute to the limit of the law those who perpetrate this crime against the state and flaunt the ethics and morals of man and God," he said.
